Like Beating China
Migrating Industry

By Arthur Brisbane

THE French have a saying "Comme on traitait la Chine." "Like beating China," to describe anything easy. Perhaps Russia had heard that, and about Japan's easy victory over China not long ago, when Russian guns, "Reds" and flying machines were sent to China's border.

Japan's news agency, Renzo, reports from Tokio that a force of 40,000 Russian Soviet troops are easily driving the Chinese before them.

When Charles E. Mitchell, head of the National City Bank, and his organization financed the bringing of Germany's great dye industry to the United States they did a good thing for this country and for German stockholders.

An American traveler, just returned, who understands business and had some millions of his own to prove it, attaches great importance to the establishment of the German dye industry here.

In addition to giving work to many Americans, including highly educated chemists, it will be recognized as the first step in Germany's exportation of money-making enterprises.

"The idea," says the traveling observer, "is to transplant German profits beyond the reach of the war debt taxes that mark, earned at home, may not be changed into France and paid to the Allies.

Germany's dye industry in the United States will supply North and South America, Japan, and probably Great Britain.

Other German industries will emigrate to this country, where capital is abundant, and profits are not attacked by the Allies. Here they will develop and employ American labor inside American tariff walls.

A great chain of factories, more than 40, are included in the German Farben Gesellschaft, an industry on a really gigantic scale.

The company employs 3500 chemists of high ability. Its factory for the production of nitrogen is more than three miles long.

That is a business with importance. British railroads are buying motor bus lines, to repair declining profits.

Some American railroads also are doing that, not so much to make profit from buses as to check their competitive activities.

A wiser step would be to build the right kind of "buses," small separate units, run them on steel rails at high speeds, with cars, each an express, little wear and tear, economical Diesel engines supplying power.

That would take some time and planning—not very much.

Mrs. Mary Vian, 45 years old, mother of eight, was charged with murdering her husband.

The "superstition" will suggest that civilization might have found some way of punishing Mrs. Vian without a "hanging" and innocent children to life-long shame.

However, you always find improvement if you look for it. We haven't, at present, any Puritan preachers telling us that the eight little children will sit up in heaven later, their bliss greatly augmented by looking down upon those burning in hell, including their mother, and we no longer burn criminals alive legally, as was once done in New York and New Jersey.

ALLEN GETS REPORT GARRETT

Wilson Criticizes Reporters, Headline Writers and Senator Mulhern

While Patrolman Oliver P. Garrett was being taken to Weymouth Hospital today with a punctured lung, Gov. Allen received a report from Police Commissioner Wilson exonerating Garrett from statements he was alleged to have made regarding an expose of the police department.

The report quoted Garrett as making a categorical denial he had ever said he would "blow the lid off the police department," that Sgt. McKenna was put in the liquor squad to spy on him, or that he learned first from bootleggers of his transfer to Division 2.

The commissioner's report, for which Gov. Allen delayed his vacation, start, criticized newspaper editors and Senator Joseph J. Mulhern. Wilson declared the alleged Garrett statement originated in the imagination of caption writers and inferred that Senator Mulhern was attempting to stir the duties of public prosecuting officers.

The commissioner also took occasion to deny the statement attributed to him by Senator Mulhern's letter, that he (Wilson) had refused to consider charges against Garrett.

DENIES "LID" ASSERTION
In answer to the communication of August 18, from Hon. Joseph J. Mulhern to the Hon. Frank H. Allen, Governor of Massachusetts, relative to statements alleged to have been made the press by Patrolman Oliver P. Garrett in the matter of his transfer from the liquor and narcotic unit attached to the superintendent's office, to the third division of this department, I would say that I have made a full investigation relative to the remarks purported to have been made at this interview.

"Patrolman Garrett in a written report to me has stated that he never uttered the remarks stated in the press that he would blow the lid off the police department, and that he learned first from bootleggers that he was to be transferred to Division 2."

"Written reports also have been received from Capt. George W. Patterson, commanding officer of the liquor and narcotic unit attached to police headquarters, officers of rank and patrolmen attached to this liquor unit and from a bail commissioner of this county, who stated that at the time of the reported conversation."

Alarmed the Graf Zeppelin, Kasumigaura Air Station, Aug. 22.—We are all sitting in the saloon of the Zeppelin, ready for departure. But there is a crosswind at the hanger. When that dies down a bit, we go on and up into the welcoming air, off on our conquest of the Pacific.

The Graf Zeppelin is no worse for its slight mishap and there is not the slightest trace of nervousness among the passengers.

Japanese naval circles are grateful to be Ecker and Capt. Lehmann, who officially accepted any Japanese crew, considering the Japanese contempt for the Japanese.

If anything, the Japanese brought the Graf's personnel and the Japanese crew together in understanding and mutual sympathy than any other thing that has happened in the last two days.

LIGHTNING FLASHES ABOUT AIR LINER DANGEROUSLY SOON AFTER START FROM JAPAN FOR AMERICA

By International News Service. Copyright, 1929, International News Service. (Via Radio to International News Service.)

On Board Graf Zeppelin, Aug. 23.—The Graf Zeppelin, en route from Kasumigaura flying field, Japan, to Los Angeles, on the third leg of the Hearst-Zeppelin round-the-world flight, today successfully passed through the worst storm in the history of its air travels.

The airship struck the storm within 300 miles after the start from Kasumigaura, at 3:12 p. m. (2:12 a. m. Boston daylight time).

The storm was of greater intensity than that which the Graf encountered over the Atlantic last October during the first flight from Friedrichshafen to Lakehurst, and was far more dangerous.

This storm furnished the passengers aboard the Graf, and Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander, and his officers their first experience with an electric storm while in flight.

For several minutes, which seemed like hours to those in the control cabin, the vivid flashes of the deadly lightning played about the great silver bulk of the airship. Any one of those brilliant bolts, the concussion of which sounded like the rending of the universe, would have blown the great airship and its human cargo to bits, had a direct hit been registered on one of the gas bags.

During this time Dr. Eckener and his navigating officers literally played tag with wholesale death in the skies, but the Graf rode magnificently through the ordeal.

The roaring motors never once faltered, and not once did the great silver hull fail to respond smoothly and unerringly to the movement of her rudder or stabilizers.

The storm was of long duration, not only twisting air currents and deadly lightning, but also the progress of the air liner.

As the dispatch was filed soon after dinner, the Graf was running smoothly and was within 100 miles an hour. The air liner's position then, more than 500 miles northeast of Tokyo, was northeast of Kasumigaura air field.

The meal was finished at 9 p. m. (8 a. m. Boston daylight time) without further incident.

motors to conserve fuel or whether all five motors were being used to develop full speed.

When the Zeppelin took off from Kasumiyaura at 3:12 p. m. today (12 m. Boston time) Dr. Eckener said he hoped to make Los Angeles in 50 hours or by 8 a. m. Pacific time (10 a. m. Boston time) Monday.

The "jinx" that had held the huge air liner captive in Kasumiyaura for 26 hours through the time the sea subsided to start the flight with the slackening of crosswinds that had swept the air.

When she took off she was accompanied by a fleet of five Japanese military airplanes.

A tremendous crowd was at the air station to bid the aerial giant farewell and cheered as she sailed forth.

RETURNS IN SALUTE

When half a mile from the field the Zeppelin turned back to salute a Japanese circle of honor, the hangar, and then, with engines roaring in glory, returned to the strait where she was launched.

In spite of the long delay attending the start and the great indignation as to the exact time, the flight was not the slightest diversion of interest among the people of Japan. In the capital, the number of people who turned out to bid her a fitting farewell.

Aboard the Zeppelin is a crew of 11, including one new passenger, and 19 passengers, a total of 30 persons. The new passenger is Karl, who is the chief engineer. Karl is a German and is a member of the Zeppelin crew.

In addition to the 19 passengers who arrived here from Friedrichshafen on the airship with technical training to Lakehurst, three new passengers are aboard.

Comdr. Rymonko Kusaka of the Japanese naval general staff, who is a member of the Zeppelin crew, is a member of the Zeppelin crew. He is a member of the Zeppelin crew.

From Los Angeles, Dr. Eckener planned to fly 2000 miles to Lakehurst, N. J., completing the round-the-world trip he began here Wednesday night, August 19.

Zepp Passengers Gain Day Crossing Pacific

Passengers on the Graf Zeppelin will experience a strange moment in world travel when they cross the place where "the day begins" in the international date or calendar line. This is the 180th meridian, in mid-Pacific.

The crossing probably will be to-morrow night and the Graf will gain one day, doubling the day as she crosses the meridian. The Graf's passengers will go to bed Saturday night and wake to find it Saturday morning again. The line is crossed Sunday, there will be no Sabbath.

If the flight was in the opposite direction a day would be skipped altogether. Going to bed Saturday night passengers would wake to find it Monday.

Zepp World Flight Is Praised by Press

HERE are two editorials in New York newspapers praising the Graf Zeppelin around-the-world flight.

A FEW days ago Friedrichshafen was cheering the Graf Zeppelin. An incredibly few days later things on the streets of Tokyo were giving at the giant aircraft. On Monday, Capt. Eckener expects to fly over Los Angeles and on many hours thereafter Lakehurst, N. J., will witness the dirigible again at the conclusion of a swift and thrilling flight around the world.

People widely separated by customs and distances have paid tribute to the genius of the Zeppelin. But few have stopped to remember that newspaper enterprise and public spirit made possible the great voyage. For it was Mr. Hunsaker's group of daily papers who provided the last sum necessary to finance the flight.

The only return which these newspapers have from their investment is the right to publish the Zeppelin in flight. Wherever it is flying, few persons who read the news are common property.

Yet the intangible character of the return will not prevent publishers from again helping to finance scientific expeditions like these, with their powerful effect on the progress of mankind.

From the time when James Gordon Bennett's New York Herald sent Stanley into Africa to find and rescue Dr. Livingston, the news of the American newspaper has been open to the explorer and the scientist. To this are added many of the great adventures and discoveries of modern times.

It is starting upon its 5400-mile flight across the Pacific, the third of the four legs into which the voyage around the world is divided. The Graf Zeppelin is written in the history of the world. It is the first time that a man has flown from the New York Herald.

ARMS CUT ON PUBLIC

Says Popular Opinion Must Be Ultimate Judge of What Is Best

Elgin, Scotland, Aug. 23 (AP)—The ultimate fate of the naval disarmament negotiations rests in the public sentiment of the countries concerned, said Ambassador Charles G. Dawes today in proposing a vote of thanks to the lord provost here at a ceremony in which the freedom of the city was conferred to Premier MacDonald.

"It should be remembered that naval negotiations may have favorably advanced, although they may not have reached necessarily the proper stage for useful discussion on the subject," he said.

"The arbitrators of the ultimate fate of this naval effort will be the respective public sentiment of the naval powers, and time must be taken to reduce them to the simplest terms before any public discussion on the subject can be undertaken better what it is all about."

shaken, where departures have now become a matter of course.

All the same, there is something suppressed in the air. Staff white-uniformed Japanese sailors are standing rigidly at attention.

With Commander Rosenthal, I walked across the grass and the really docking rails, and found Dr. Eckener "smiling the light" in his inimitable way.

"Lightning" no good for the Zeppelin, we must fly southward at first, avoid the storm area. We are hoping for a strong southwest wind to push us along at a rate.

ZEPP RISES MAJESTICALLY ABOVE GEEERING TOKIO THOUSANDS

Passengers Happy as Airliner Starts Long Flight Over Pacific to Los Angeles

EXCLUSIVE

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND
World-renowned newspaper correspondent, who crossed the Atlantic aboard the Graf Zeppelin on its first transatlantic cruise, and who is writing the story of the Hearst Zeppelin Round-World Flight.

Saunigaura Air Station, Tokio, Aug. 22—The Graf Zeppelin was walked out of the hangar here at 3 o'clock this afternoon (2 a. m. Boston daylight) and was launched before a huge ship rose from the ground at exactly 2:12 p. m. The passengers were confident that this time the storm would be quelled by the elements.

An air huge ship rose majestically above the assembled multitude, their confidence was justified and elation at once more being in the air spread over every face aboard the Graf.

It was not until the last moment that we had been certain of taking off on this, the third leg of the Hearst-Zeppelin round-the-world flight.

At last night and most of today, a typhoon-like storm with lightning and rain was blowing over the Zeppelin camp.

The prediction proved true for the wind was blowing more now than at any time since evening. There was a moment when the clock last night and again between 2 and 3 this morning when an experienced crew which had been ordered to leave the ship out of the dock quickly and save a getaway.

But in view of the difficulty of making the Japanese crew of naval men, inexperienced in such work as the best, understood orders. Eckener considered it unwise to attempt it.

Dr. Friedrichshafen or Zeppelin, there would have been no health.

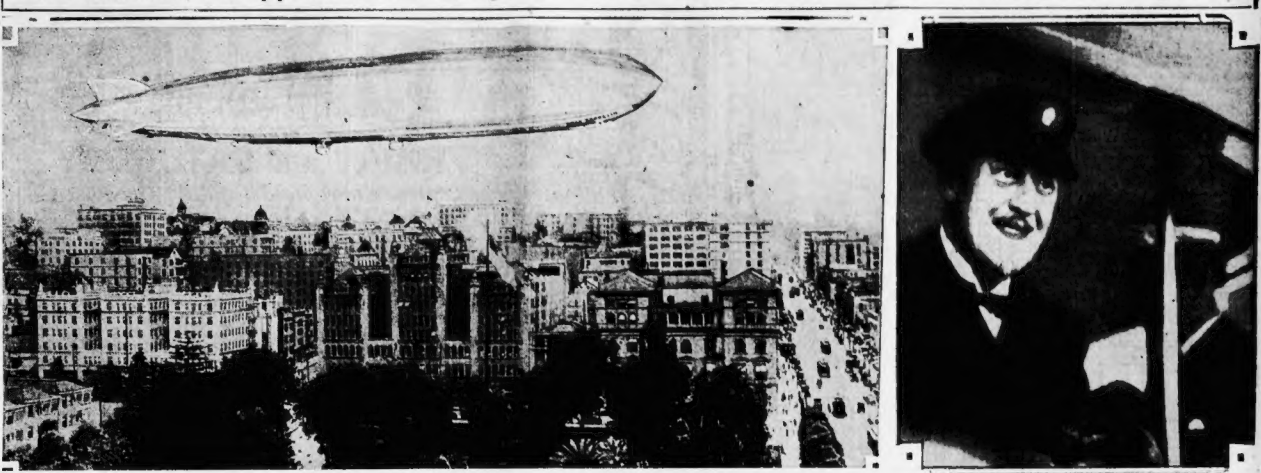

GALE AND LIGHTNING
It is unfortunate that the jammed trolley car, which was jammed from getting away, said Dr. Eckener to me. Pointing to a lay-out of clouds that were racing the moon he continued:

Of us had good away with that forty-mile southwest wind up there we would have probably seen a transatlantic record similar to our last Atlantic flight. But with only a few inches of clearance at the top of the hangar and the difficulty of making the crew-hanger wind also. It would be as unfair to the Japanese as it would be to the ship.

Early this morning Capt. Lehmann came in from the field with the declaration:

"With this typhoon-like storm and lightning in the early morning hours, I see little hope of getting out of the dock now before possibly the hour of sunset, even if we can."

Commander of Zeppelin and How Queen of Air Will Look at Next Port of Call, Los Angeles

Composite photo arranged by Boston Evening American staff artist to show how the Graf Zeppelin will look when over her next port of call, Los Angeles, which Commander Eckener hopes to reach next Monday.

about 10 a. m., Boston time, according to statements made by the airliner took off early this morning on her flight across the Pacific, third leg of the Hearst-Zeppelin round-the-world flight. In the foreground of the picture is shown part of Los Angeles central park in the heart of the city and surrounded by massive concrete buildings.

and Flight-Comdr. Capt. Ernest Lehmann made an official declaration concerning fully the Japanese forces at the air station and particularly Lieut-Comdr. Fujimori and Admiral Araki. Capt. Lehmann said:

"No blame whatever, for neglect or lack of precaution, attaches to them, and no one would regret more than Dr. Eckener, myself, and the officers and crew of the Zeppelin if such an impression has been created."

LEADS LATE
Capt. Lehmann added that it was something that had happened before and was in no way serious. Later, Dr. Eckener asked Ambassador Vortsch to call upon Premier Hamaguchi and express gratitude for the Japanese co-operation and also to impress upon the president that the Japanese forces were not to blame for the untoward happening of the Graf's flight.

Most of us spent yesterday in Tokio, with the exception of Lieut. Richard and Lieut. Richardson, who visited in Yokohama and missed the train back to the landing field when we were called at twilight and ordered back to Kamigaura. But the three put in an appearance at the minute scheduled for the Zeppelin's nocturnal hop-off—only to be disappointed when the start was postponed.

This accident only brought to our minds more forcibly the fact that this is still pioneering, with all the adventure, planar and romance that attends the first step in development of any kind.

U. S. Lifts Hero Ban to Honor Ex-Slave

Washington, Aug. 23 (AP)—The war department lifted the ban against civilian burials in Arlington cemetery long enough today to permit "Uncle Jim" Parks to begin his long sleep of death in that reservation.

He spent his life there as a negro slave boy, a freed man, an aging worker and a guide.

A slave of George Washington Parks, Custis, adopted son of George Washington and father-in-law of Robert E. Lee, he saw the battle of the Civil War roll over the wounded battlefields where he played as a boy; saw the coffins of his own people buried in the intervals.

When the women reach Cleveland, one of them will be awarded $1000 for the fastest time in yesterday's lap, the biggest lap prize of the derby. Officials here would not say whether Louise McFarbridge Thaden, Pittsburgh, first, or Amelia Earhart, Boston, had covered the El Paso-Port Worth lap in the shortest time.

Haverhill, Aug. 23—The women stitchers who fought for the retention of their two business agents, Mrs. Eleanor Rowney and Miss Nellie Cronan, in the reorganization of the 10 locals of the Shoe Workers' Protective Union, petitioned the district council to call meetings of the locals for a referendum on the question of reducing the dues of members from 25 cents per week to 10 cents.

The district council will act upon the petition at the regular meeting tonight.

Wage Cut Proposed in British Mills

They sought more than a month ago in a demand for a 10 per cent increase in the cotton industry was in an exceedingly depressed condition and needed an immediate palliative. They were not sure, however, whether the government would agree to the suggestion.

4 BOYS DROWN 2 DRIVERS HELD AS RAFT SINKS

Williamstown, Aug. 23—Tragically today the Connecticut river, taking the lives of four Holyoke boys, changing in age from 12 to 15, and nearly taking a fifth, when the raft which the youngsters had constructed broke up while they were taking their first "joy ride" on it, across the river from Holyoke to this shore line.

The boys drowned were Romeo Rivick, 14, of Canal st.; Harry Blayman, 15, of Bridge st.; Roland Houdreau, 13, of Bridge st.; and Walter Burnett, 14. Rivick's body was still missing.

Armand, the only one of the five who could swim, made a valiant effort to rescue his brother but he lost out when he was forced to shake off the efforts of the other boys who grabbed at his clothing in their last desperate moments.

TWO KILLED IN GUN DUEL OVER A LOVE AFFAIR

Clover, Ga., Aug. 23 (AP)—Two men who met in the center of town to fight a duel with pistols at arms length were dead today as the culmination of a feud's objection to a married man's supposed attentions to his daughter.

The duel, witnessed by a gathering of townspeople, marked the end of months of enmity between Dale Huddleston, 33, and Marcus Brown, 42, both farmers. The trouble between them was all started by the second, alleged elopement of Brown, who was the father of eight children, with Huddleston's daughter.

The father sent a message to Brown, warning him to desist, but the attentions to his daughter Brown, infuriated by the message was said to have challenged the father to meet him at a designated store on the town's principal street.

The townspeople had heard of the challenge, and a crowd of men gathered with hope of preventing the duel.

Huddleston already had arrived and was seated in front of the store with a shotgun on his lap when Brown came up, also carrying a shotgun. Both guns were loaded with buckshot. The duel followed.

BEING A RED IS ALL WRONG

Paris, Aug. 23 (AP)—The French Radical, Paul Marion, has resigned from the Communist party in which he rose to the rank of chief of the propaganda and agitation section of the central executive committee.

M. Marion lived in Russia from November, 1927, until February, 1928, returning here and recently writing his resignation, which is a scathing denunciation of Josef Stalin's "Red Paradise."

In Russia Marion said he found the doctrine of proletarian dictatorship served to conceal the most cruel despotism. The government of the Soviets is merely the domination of a few of the thousands of bureaucrats of all kinds and sizes from Stalin down to the last village correspondent.

SOVIET ARMIES READY TO TAKE TWO CITIES

London, Aug. 23 (AP)—Rapidly increasing military activity on the Sino-Russian Manchurian frontier was held in certain quarters today to represent a situation possibly portending actual hostilities.

Important troop movements were in progress, both in the U. S. R. and by the provincial and Chinese governments, although there was nothing to indicate there had been an actual outbreak of fighting between the rival armies other than minor border clashes.

Chinese sources maintained they had information of an impending Russian advance in strength, with the plan of battle given as advance on Kogranchnay from two sides, after which Harbin would be taken, with Soviet gunboats advancing down the Sungari river to aid in the fighting.

The Soviet organization was reported to be completed, with Gen. Vassili C. Blucher, renowned Soviet war leader, taking command of the army of the Far East, with Gen. Hudenany cavalry leader, his chief subordinate.

BRYANT'S HOME
GIVEN TO STATE

Cum gratia, Aug. 25 (AP)—Presentation of the William Cullen Bryant home to the state board of trustees of public reservations, together with a fund of $100,000 provided in the will of Miss G. Goddard, granddaughter of the poet, featured the opening of the town's three-day retrospective festival today.

Later an additional fund of $300,000 will be available by the will of a daughter of Bryant, Julia Rand Bryant. It will be devoted to maintenance and preservation of the home as a memorial to Bryant and as a public benefit.

The little Hampshire county hill town, reputed to be most remote from a railroad of any Massachusetts community, is festive at its 150th birthday. George Wigglesworth of Boston, president of the trustees of public reservations, delivered the address of welcome. Walter Pritchard Eaton of Sheffield, poet and author, was master of the day.

SUICIDE JAILS
DEATH SUSPECT

Brought six years in connection with the Mariboro "household murder" of John B. Girouard, Gabriel Porcillo, 46, was betrayed into hands of the police by the suicide at Portland yesterday of his sweet heart, Mrs. Dorothy Knox.

Taken into custody on request of U. S. Dist. Atty. Frederic A. Kraft of Middlesex County, Porcillo committed today that he fled from his Clinton home to Los Angeles following the murder of Girouard.

He said he feared he would be suspected of the crime, but denied any connection with it. Portland police are holding him pending decision of Massachusetts authorities.

After fleeing in Los Angeles, Porcillo said he went to Vancouver, where he met Mrs. Knox, 23, who shot herself in Porcillo's apartment yesterday.

Porcillo, a barber by trade, admitted to police that he had served time in Worcester jail for larceny and had twice jumped bail on federal cases. He was at one time held in connection with a Boston murder for which another man was later convicted.

May "Lift Cotton's Face" to Get the Wrinkles Out!

Washington, Aug. 23 (AP)—A method of manufacturing a cotton cloth that will not wrinkle is being sought by the Bureau of Standards.

The needs for such a cloth was called to the attention of the bureau by Representative Edith Nourse Rogers, Republican, Massachusetts, who said one of the reasons a wider use was not made of cotton cloth was its tendency to wrinkle.

The study was undertaken with a group of other tests in which the bureau is seeking to determine the serviceability of cotton cloth.

The textile section is assembling data on thermal conductivity, lustrousness, clipperiness, resistance, draping qualities, heat, stiffness and other factors that affect the consumers' opinion of quality.

THIRINGS FLOCK TO WHITE MT. AIR MEET

By GEORGE W. HANBLIN

Whitfield, N. H., Aug. 22.—Nearly all of the expected 800 planes have arrived at the White Mountain air terminal here for the three day official dedication of the airport. Commercial pilots from all sections of New England have placed the stamp of approval on the new field.

Excitement is at fever heat in the White Mountain district and the fond expectations of Harry Fennell, general manager of the White Mountain Airways, in charge of the week-end aerial display, appear to be in a fair way of being surpassed.

All roads from towns surrounding the airport were jammed with automobiles this morning and the police had difficulty in keeping traffic moving.

The planes, of which 15 are army and navy ships, will be open for public inspection tomorrow and Sunday.

Having made this trip up in the White Mountain Airways' Stinson-Detroit cabin plane Skylark, the headlines of the mountains were fully revealed. We induce the air line to anyone with an eye for natural beauty.

Early plane arrivals at the airport include two Eagles, owned by Massachusetts Airways of Springfield, flown by George H. Watkins, chief pilot of the company, and Leonard Power; a 300 h. p. Wright whistled engraved Stinson-Detroit, flown by Earl Cleveland, from Derby Lane Airport, New York; a Ryan brought over by Old Colony Airways, flown by Winner "Mike" Darlow and containing Ed Radach, president of the firm, and five students; Ray C. Van Arsdale, president of the North Atlantic Aviation Corp., with his little Great Lakes sport plane; George G. Bottly Wilton, from Keene, N. H., in his Veeo 8 biplane.

The Army, National Guard and Navy planes will arrive tomorrow. Visiting ships will be dropping in until late in the evening. Reconn flights will be kept burning to guide the fliers in the field.

Parachute jumps will wind up the program of each day. The jumping will be done by Leonard Cook, of Boston.

The complete program of events follows:

Today, 1:00 p. m., aerial parade; 1:30, passenger flights; 2:30, stunt flying; 3:00, commercial race; 3:30, passenger flights; 4:15, stunt flying; 4:30, passenger flights; 5:30, bomb dropping contest; passenger flights until dark.

Saturday, 10:00 a. m., public inspection of planes; 10:30, passenger flights until noon; 11:30 p. m., hand concert; 1:00, aerial parade; 1:30, passenger flights; 2:15, stunt flying; 2:30, dedication address; 3:00, passenger flights; public inspection of army planes; 3:30, Army, Navy and National Guard race; 4:20, passenger flights; 5:30, stunt flying; 6:30, parachute jump; passenger flights until dark.

Sunday, 10:30 a. m., public inspection of planes; 10:30, stunt flying; passenger flights until noon; 1:00 p. m., parade formation; 1:30, commercial race; 2:00, passenger flights; 2:30, Army, Navy and National Guard race; 3:00, stunt flying and passenger flights; 4:00, Army, Navy and National Guard formation flight; 4:30, stunt flying and passenger flights; 5:00, stunt flying by Lieut. Crowley, aid rail pilot; 5:30, passenger flights; 6:30, parachute jump.

Girl Entertainer Sues for $350,000

Chicago, Aug. 22 (AP).—Ten damage suits totaling $350,000 have been filed by Miss June McAlister, 26-year-old entertainer of the Club Alhambra, against Harry E. Brubaker, president of the West Wood Working Company, who was sued last January for separate maintenance.

Armed Dad in War on Blind Pig to Save Son

Chicago, Aug. 22 (AP).—Henry M. Walker, former municipal judge, armed with a pistol, entered the police station today and told police officers they closed a certain speakeasy on Broadway, he would do it himself.

"I spent $10,000 putting my 23-year-old son and namesake through school," he told Lieut. Patrick O'Connor, "and I'm not going to let the speakeasy ruin him."

Intercepted a message from the blind owner intended for his son. He got his gun, he said, and went to the place, but could not find the proprietor.

Walker told Lieut. O'Connor that he intended to re-enter politics and seek reelection as a municipal court judge if only for the purpose of fighting liquor.

Boston Banks Win Excise Tax Claims

Judge Field of the Supreme Court, on petition of the Atlantic National Bank and the Boston Safe Deposit & Trust Company, ordered a writ of certiorari to issue, quashing the action of the State board of appeal in sustaining Henry F. Long, commissioner of corporation and taxation, in fixing the excise tax on banks for 1928 at 6.16 per cent. The banks claimed that, under the statutes, the rate should be 5.62 per cent.

Cop's Memory Jails Thief Suspect

The excellent memory of Lieut. Joseph Riley of the Watertown police resulted in the capture of David Hennessy, 46, of the Hotel Vermont, Cambridge St., Boston, said by police to be a notorious house breaker.

When nabbed in Watertown, Hennessy carried a bag, which, police say, contained a "suit of clothes" stolen from a house.

smashing the glass in the door. Lieut. Riley arrested Hennessy five years ago for a series of burglaries.

Story of Modern 'Hard-Boiled' Flapper Who Was Easy

What Has Gone Before
Unlike her bold and modern flapper sisters, Jamie and Alice, Anne Marie Macy refuses to compromise her high ideals by getting. Anne Marie has more serious ideas. She saves the money she earns in her father's bookstore to study art. When John Lewis, one of the town, invites her to the Christmas dance, her happiness is short lived as Alice selfishly requests Anne Marie to stay home while she attends the party in her place. Alice and Anne Marie further infuriate Anne Marie by pilfering her Christmas bottle of rare perfume.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER 8
The quarreling stopped like magic. But, like most people who are slow to anger, Anne Marie did not get over her anger in a hurry.

And her cheeks were still scarlet with fury and her eyes were like blue flame when she marched down the aisle to the front of the store.

"Hello, Flo!" she greeted Florence Lawler as calmly as she could. "You haven't come for the programs, have you? I told you not to stop in for them until you were on your way in the dance, didn't you remember? And they're not ready."

Florence frowned. "I thought probably they'd be ready now if I stopped in," she answered. All her people had jumped through hoops at her bidding.

She was upset now because Anne Marie didn't have the dance programs ready for her.

"Well, get them finished as soon as you can," she said irritably. "Because you just HAVE to go to the dance tonight, Ann Marie—Here I am with two extra men on my hands—Oh, I forgot—You haven't met them."

She turned and laid one white-gloved hand on the coat sleeve of the taller of the two men who had come in with her.

"Miss Macy—Mr. Jim Goodwin," she said, and Ann Marie looked up into the kind pair of brown eyes she ever had seen.

Jim Goodwin was one of those very tall, very large men who are very quiet and very gentle. You could tell, just by looking at him, that there was nothing crooked, nothing small and mean, about him. He met the world with a straight, honest pair of eyes, a warm, firm handshake and a quick, friendly, boyish smile.

Ann Marie noticed all these things about him as she shook hands with him—and then forgot all about him instantly.

For Florence was introducing the other man to her, and he was saying things but the kind of man that she could forget. He was the kind that a great many of them, no doubt, wished they could forget!

"My cousin, Neal Forsythe, Ann Marie," Florence was saying, and Ann Marie turned to look at him, something happened to her heart that certainly never happened to it before.

HALF MARRIAGE IS STAGED HERE BY STAGE FOLK

Dancer and Youthful Suitor
Have Their Own Rules
For Wedded Bliss

Old-fashioned marriage, companionate marriage, trial marriage—and now the "half-marriage."

Gordon Carter and Gladys Holt, youthful aspirants in "half-marriage," sprung it on Clerk Joseph A. Calahan of the registry department at City Hall.

"We want a half-marriage," they said in unison and Mr. Calahan, who has played cupid in many an affair of other people's hearts, rubbed his eyes and scratched his head and was at a loss for words.

"It's this way, Gladys and I have been working together in Ken Murray's Revue for almost a year now. We love each other and we want to be married. But we have our own ideas about it."

GARRETT, HURT RACER, IS IN HOSPITAL

Deposed Rum Raider's Injuries at Racetrack Grow Serious, Doctor Says

After P. Garrett, deposed rum trader, recent Boston politician and amateur cricketer who was injured during a trotting race at Marshfield Park, was in a Boston Hospital today.

Suffering from a possible fractured skull and fractured ribs, he feared when the horse he was driving stumbled and fell, heeding him to the hospital by Dr. John S. McCormack of Jamaica Plain.

At first the policeman believed he was only slightly injured and a visit to a private hospital seemed to confirm that opinion.

He then went to his home at 64 Somerset Ave. where his condition became worse. On the arrival of Dr. McCormack he ordered Garrett to a hospital the name of which was kept secret.

The mishap in which Garrett figured and another similar accident earlier on the racing card with the breaking of the mile record for the track by Marauder, has gotten of Dr. L. A. Fisher of Middleboro, who charged Garrett with the violation of the racing rules.

Gov. Frank L. Allen, after the race, was the highlight of the day at the fair.

An expectation of receiving the report of Police Commissioner Willson regarding statements made by Garrett when the latter was removed as head of the liquor squad, Governor Allen visited his office at the State House today, although he was to leave for the White Mountains for a fortnight's vacation.
